FOREWORD

WHO'S WHO IN CALIFORNIA is a Directory of Biographical Sketches of men and women who are, or who have been, prominently connected with the history of California. Not only do officials, soldiers, persons noteworthy in the church, at the bar, in literature, art, science, and the professions find place, but also those who have contributed to the industrial, commercial and agricultural progress and growth of the State. The aim of the Work is to exemplify and perpetuate, in the broadest sense, California civilization through its chief personalities, and to reflect the spirit, genius and life of each section.

It is acknowledged that the great forces which today contribute most largely to the growth of California are the people who have developed its resources, and their achievements deserve and have been accorded representation in these pages. Frank recognition is given to those who have ancient lineage and records, and also to others founded in the soil who are destined to become the ancestry of the future. The names of those individuals who have achieved prosperity or success through intelligent, arduous and faithful labor for the benefit of the State and the advancement of its people are justly entitled to perpetuation and one of the purposes of this Directory is to supply an invaluable and useful means for establishing identity, relationship, birth, death, official position, and other important data which are necessary to the making up of such biographical history.

In the gathering of material for this Work there has been inaugurated a system of local contributions from every section of California, by which are secured the facts in reference to many persons who have heretofore been omitted from biographical notice. Our State annals are full of characters worthy of the emulation of posterity, but their story will perish, bearing no fruit, if it be not gathered up, and preserved by some such method of extended research as has been adopted by the publishers of WHO'S WHO IN CALIFORNIA.

The rapidity of the State's growth makes it almost impossible for each section to be thoroughly acquainted with the other, and it follows that a substantial proportion of those who have performed great constructive service for their fellow men are little known beyond the borders of their local community, therefore this Work performs a commendable service by introducing these Nation-builders to the World-at-large.

Works of this magnitude necessarily cannot be published often, consequently it has been thought wise to include in WHO'S WHO IN CALIFORNIA some of the younger men, and others, possibly not yet known, who give promise of becoming notable and representative in the future, so that when they suddenly come into prominence, as is so frequently the case, this Directory will contain information of their lives, which will show the groundwork of their characters and their claim upon the expectations of the future, the ideal of a biographical directory being to anticipate the information demanded about new people as they come into prominence.

It is aimed to have these biographical sketches include all the facts worthy of mention, and, taken together, to make a contemporary History of California, political, social, commercial, agricultural, and industrial.

A departure in WHO'S WHO IN CALIFORNIA is the abandonment of alphabetical arrangement. Experience has brought forth the knowledge that many important sketches invariably come to hand after their natural section in an alphabetically arranged book is closed, requiring that the sketch be omitted entirely or that an Addenda be added to the book which at once destroys any alphabetical arrangement, diminishes its value for reference, and compels a reliance upon the Index. So, in view of the grave disadvantages of the alphabetical method, the publishers of WHO'S WHO IN CALIFORNIA are convinced that simple traditional precedent for such arrangement should not be permitted to destroy freshness of material or stand in the way of manifest improvement. They have, therefore, disregarded the alphabetical order and instead have placed in this Volume a full, analytical Index which makes its vast information immediately and conveniently accessible.

The publishers hope to issue subsequent editions of WHO'S WHO IN CALIFORNIA biennially, bringing to date the sketches of a great majority of present subscribers, and including the photographs of as many of such as can be secured. The publishers desire also to give representation in proposed subsequent editions to many additional representative Californians who are not included herein.

SCATENA, Lorenzo, banker; b. Lucca, nr. Florence, Italy, Feb. 10, 1850; s. Francesco and Florinda (Massoni) S.; attended common schools in Italy until twelve yrs. of age when he sailed for America, arriving in New York in mid-winter. En route he was complimented by ship-captain for his adeptness in the duties of a sailor and particularly for his agility in climbing the mast faster than any member of the crew. With California as his goal he took passage for Colon from where he was obliged to walk most of the way across the tropical Isthmian wilderness to the Pacific Coast because of the fact that the Isthmian Railway was not then completed. Was forty-six days aboard ship from Panama to San Francisco where he arrived in 1862. Years of work as a laborer in the California fields and vineyards followed, during which period he married, reared three children, Henry,

Florence and Pearl, and was left a widower. Subsequently, in 1876, while witnessing the unloading of a cargo of strawberries from the steamer Relief, at the old Jackson Street wharf, San Francisco, he met Mrs. Virginia Giannini, a widow with three small children, namely Amadeo Peter, now chairman of the advisory committee of the Bank of Italy, N.T. & S. Assn., Attilio H., now chairman, board of directors, The Bank of America, N.A., New York, and George, now president of L. Scatena & Co., commission merchants, San Francisco. He married Mrs. Giannini after brief courtship. Subsequently engaged in farming at San Jose, several years; became fruit buyer for a San Francisco commission firm at $200 per month, which was increased after the first month to $250; he remained with this firm several months. He realized a profit of approximately $5,000 on 300 tons of grapes, which shipment his employer had refused to accept, and with the proceeds of this sale established the firm of L. Scatena & Co., fruit and produce, San Francisco; his first month's profits, $1,500, he changed into $20 gold pieces and showered into the lap of his wife. With his stepson, A. P. Giannini, he established the Bank of Italy, San Francisco, in October, 1904, and he served as its first president for eight years. He made millions of dollars for more than fifty of his friends, during his active career. Mr. Scatena is now chairman of the board of directors of the Bank of Italy National Trust & Savings Association and chairman of the National Bankitaly Co.
